

Sample resources from the World Book Web

Earlier this semester, we forwarded the information about The World Book Web, which is available to EVSC students and their families. This resource includes not only text articles, but also sound files of speeches and news articles as well as pictures and maps. The e-books Center features many full text versions of novels and other written works.

In addition the text articles have a read aloud option in English, Spanish, and many other languages.

As teachers plan for second semester, be sure to utilize this valuable source for classes, student projects, and school programs.

A few examples and links are included below.

In the World Book Advanced, type Abraham Lincoln. The column on the left lists articles, pictures, video clips, and suggested teaching units.

Click the link below for the audio version of the Gettysburg address.

<http://www.worldbookonline.com/advanced/extmedia?id=ar222980&em=au008564>

Resources from This Day in History is applicable to many subjects areas and will include text articles, pictures, video clips, and sound clips from happenings.

In the World Book Advanced home page, click Today in History from the Research Tools box.

http://www.worldbookonline.com/advanced/home?id=th/tih\_archive.jsp

Newspapers from around the World are an excellent source for any curriculum area – students can study current events, past world happenings, and used the clips and pictures for journals, projects, or class presentations.

In the World Book Advanced, click the World Newspapers link listed in the Research Tools box. Select from the more than 100 countries listed.

Click the link below for a sample of a world newspaper – Spain's El Pais.

<http://www.worldbookonline.com/advanced/website?id=http://www.elpais.com/global/>

The World Book Discover, World Book Kids, World Book student, and Hallazgos, the Spanish Language version of World Book Web also offers research for challenged learners and English as Second Language students.